

JANESVILLE MAN IS STILL AMONG THOSE REPORTED MISSING

NO TRACE FOUND OF DR. EDMUND WOODS BY AUTHORITIES PROBING ARABIS DISASTER.

NO RADICAL ACTION

President Decides Upon Thorough Discussion of Latest Sinking of Steamer and Will Ask Germany for an Explanation.

Washington, August 21.—It was announced by the state department today that Ambassador Gerard probably will be directed to call the German government's attention to the sinking of the Arabic and to invite an explanation.

This was the first indication from any official source that Germany would have an opportunity to give reasons for the attack apparently in disregard of Pres. Wilson's solemn warning that such an act would be regarded as deliberately unfriendly.

The state department's attitude, is that if the German government has any facts, which in its opinion, go to mitigate the circumstances of the attack, such as an attempt to escape or an attempt to resist or attack the submarine, the Berlin foreign office should have an opportunity to present them.

Today's announcement moreover indicates that before President Wilson takes any action there may become exchange of diplomatic communication.

It is understood that the state department's policy is to show the utmost deliberation consistent with the delicate question, and to omit no opportunity of avoiding a severance of relations with Germany so long as there is reasonable expectation that a sufficient excuse can be given for the sinking of the Arabic.

Secretary Lansing said he could do no more now than has been done, and would wait to wait official information necessary to determine the government's course.

Vice Consul Reports.
Washington, Aug. 21.—Vice Consul Thompson's late dispatch to the state department from Queenstown confirms the White Star line's statement that only two Americans have not been accounted for. They are Dr. Edmund F. Woods of Janesville and Mrs. Josephine Sather Brugiere of San Francisco.

Woods Still Missing.
Queenstown, via London, Aug. 21.—After checking up all lists of Americans on the White Star line, the Arabic torpedoed Thursday morning by a German submarine off Fastnet, the United States consulate reports the only Americans missing are Mrs. Josephine Brugiere and Dr. Edmund F. Woods.

Three Did Not.
London, Aug. 21.—The following statement was given out today at the offices of the White Star line:

"We are in a position to state that the following passengers reported missing, did not embark on the Arabic: Maurice Davis, Mrs. Fisher and Mr. Sand."

Served at Neuilly, France.
Dr. Edmund F. Woods of Janesville, who is believed to have lost his life on the Arabic, was returning to his home from a month's service at the American ambulance corps at Neuilly, France.

Arabic Without Convoy.
The British government today authorized the statement that the steamer was being escorted by a British submarine when she was torpedoed by German submarine.

Warships Accompanied Cymric.
New York, Aug. 21.—The passengers and crew of the White Star line Arabic asserted upon their arrival here today that the Cymric had been conveyed for thirty-six hours after leaving Liverpool, August 11, by rays of British warships, five in number, and that she had been permitted to proceed unaccompanied until the war zone had been left behind. Several passengers said the perspective of a submarine had been seen, but the officers of the Cymric declined to discuss this situation.

The Cymric took virtually the same course as the Arabic, which also flew the White Star flag on the latter's westward trip which started Thursday morning with her destruction off the southern coast of Ireland.

The Cymric carried 188 passengers, of whom 105 were in the steerage. Warned of Submarine.
From the time of casting off until the war zone was cleared, the passengers said, the Cymric sailed in momentary readiness for a death blow, then the steamer was ordered to stop, the flag pole recently erected at the mouth of the Mersey, where all outgoing vessels could not fail to see it, displayed the warning that German submarines were lurking in nearby waters.

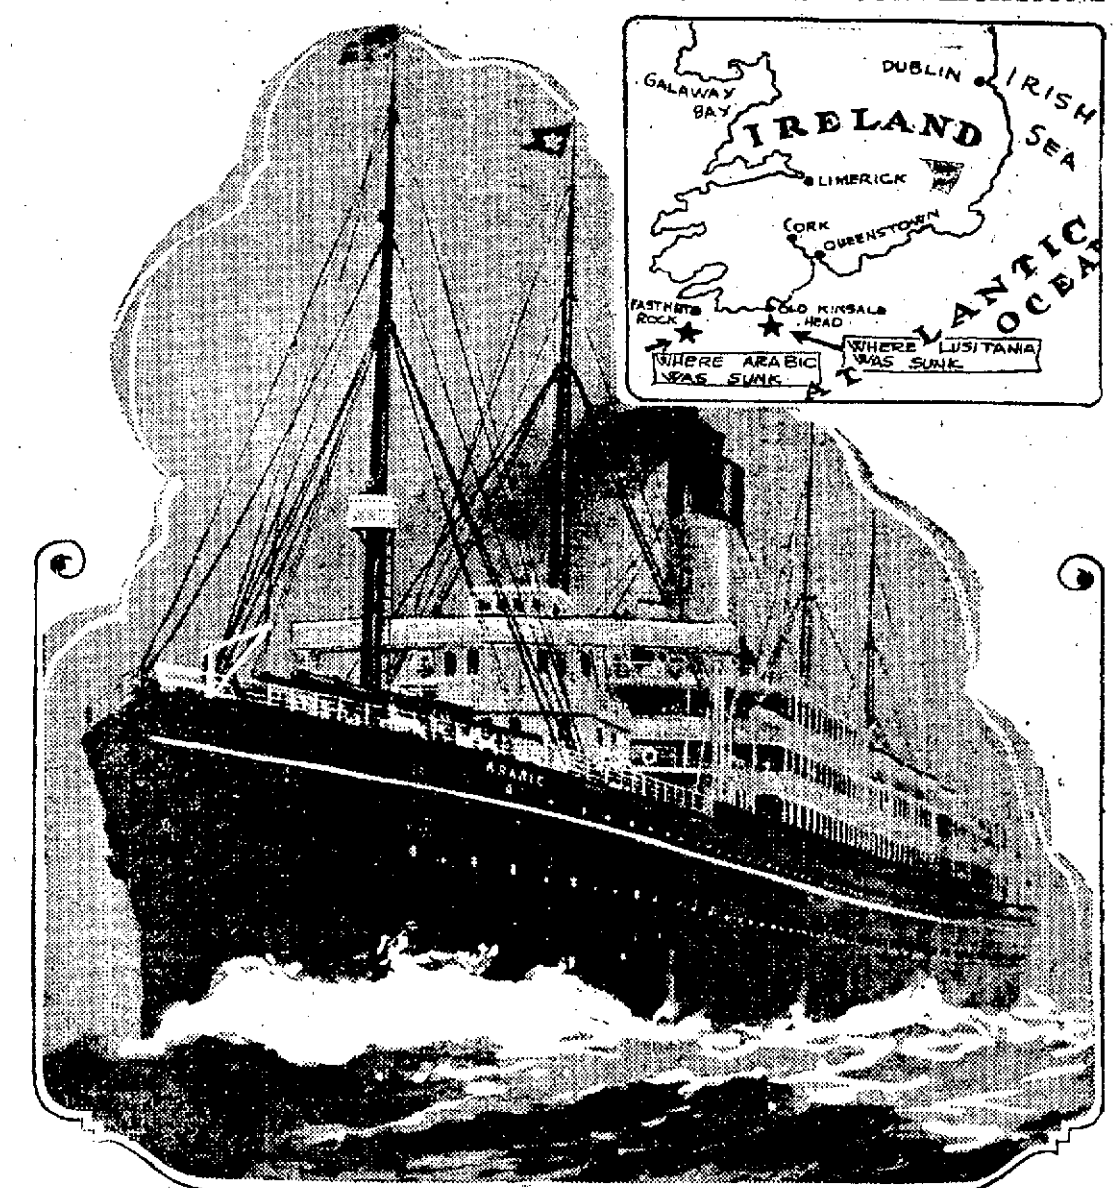

This warning, the passengers said, in the form of a black ball hoisted from the top of the pole. It had been agreed among ship owners at Liverpool that it was a sign of danger when the admiralty's warning of nearby submarines came to port too late to warn outgoing craft by telephone or messenger.

Tells of Convoy.
Before the Cymric was out of the Mersey, sailors provisioned the life boats and swung them outward. The passengers were then assembled and assigned their respective places in the boat, so that there might be no confusion in emergency.

When clear of Liverpool harbor, the Cymric sighted a small number of enemy's converted yacht which steamed silently along side, sometimes approaching two hundred yards, until nearly sunset, when the second relay, a fast vessel of apparently awaiting the Cymric's arrival in her zone.

Destroyer Appears.
The cruiser dropped behind and the destroyer took her place. That night all lights except red ones were extinguished and every port hole was blacked. The passengers slept with life belt at their hand. Next day the convoy was continued. Four destroyers passed the ship from one to another, each warship apparently pa-

TORPEDOING OF ARABIC BRINGS FEAR OF FRESH COMPLICATIONS

Liner Arabic and scene of disaster. The sinking of the liner Arabic by a German submarine has caused anxiety and consternation at Washington, where fresh complications with Germany are feared, are a result of Germany's act.

ITALY NEARS OPEN BREAK WITH TURKS; BULGARS MOBILIZE

Note Submitted to Turkish Government Asks If Italians Will Be Allowed to Leave Country.

Paris, Aug. 21.—The Italian ambassador at Constantinople, says a Rome dispatch to the Matin, has been instructed to hand to the Porte a note asking for a formal categorical statement as to the departure of Italians from the Turkish possessions.

The note is couched in terms admitting of no evasion. Without being an ultimatum it calls upon the Turkish government to declare "yes" or "no," whether Italians will be permitted to leave, and when.

Bulgars Menace Turkey.
Naples, via Paris, Aug. 21.—A dispatch to the Matin from Salonika says that Bulgaria has concentrated 150,000 troops on the Turkish frontier.

PART OF ST. LOUIS SUBMERGED BY RAIN

Incessant Torrential Downpour Covers Southwest Part of City and People Go About in House Boats.

St. Louis, Aug. 21.—The southwestern part of St. Louis was under water today as the result of a continuous downpour of rain that began at one o'clock this morning, followed by a steady drizzle that lasted all day. At nine o'clock this morning four inches of rain had fallen. The storm was accompanied by high winds. Residents of the southwestern part of town went about in boats.

TEN YEAR OLD GIRL SHOT WHILE PLAYING

Accidental Discharge of Gun Lodges Bullet in Brain of Little Girl.

Green Bay, Wis., Aug. 21.—While playing croquet yesterday afternoon with her brother and neighboring children, Mary Barr, ten year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Barr, was shot through the head by the accidental discharge of a rifle. The bullet entered her brain and caused her death today.

Mary was swinging head downward on a trapeze, when she asked her play mate to move the wagon, as she might strike her head on it. As the wagon was moved the gun was discharged.

MONASTERY AFLAME DRIVING OUT NUNS

Lives of Two Hundred Endangered at Green Bay When Fire Breaks Out in Monastery.

Green Bay, Aug. 21.—The lives of 160 persons, nuns and girls, were imperiled when fire broke out in the sleeping apartments in the monastery of "Our Lady of Charity" here at three o'clock this morning. An alarm of fire was spread and all the sleepers were awakened and succeeded in getting down the stairs outside before the smoke became too dense. The fire started in the laundry of the institution and practically wrecked it. The damage is $10,800.

TWENTY-SIX WARDENS DROPPED FROM LISTS

Passage of New Conservation Bill Effects Change in the Game Department of State.—Fifty Wardens Remain.

Madison, Wis., Aug. 21.—Twenty-six game wardens have been dropped from the lists, according to the announcement made at the office of the state conservation commission. Until recently there were seventy-six game wardens in the state. Through the passage of the new conservation consolidation bill the title by which these officials will be designated "conservation wardens" has been changed.

The lists of the men appointed were made public, nor were the names of the men who have been dropped from the lists. A complete reorganization of the conservation wardens along other lines is also planned by the commission. Heretofore these men have been paid from $2 to $4 a day, depending upon their class on the civil service roll and the efficiency of the service rendered by these officials. The men were only furnished employment about eight or nine months a year.

"Like men in manufacturing establishments these men have always felt and we now feel that a better service would be rendered the state should these men be given continuous work," said one of the members of the conservation commission today. "Men will render the best service when it is not necessary for them to be looking for other employment to place out the year, when they no longer have work along the line of their regular occupation."

The commission is planning to put the wardens on a regular monthly salary basis of from $75 to $100 a month. They are to be furnished continuous work. The commission is of the opinion that better service can thus be given by fifty men than by a greater number working on part time on a per diem basis.

The new codified fish and game law passed by the legislature is now being gone over by the commissioners to ascertain the best method of securing its complete enforcement.

BIGGEST OX IN WORLD SLAUGHTERED IN SCHWERIN

Sultan, the biggest ox in the world, has been brought here for slaughter. He was exhibited at all the big cattle fairs in Germany. He is a giant of flesh and bone, just a fraction of an inch under 6 feet, 10 inches in height, and weighs 4,189 pounds. He is pure white and was bred from a zebu or Indian bull.

FRENCH TALKING MACHINES ARE THE LATEST IN TRENCHES

Paris, Aug. 21.—Specially constructed talking machines are now being made over by the commission for use in the trenches. The reproduction is just sufficiently loud for listeners close to the machine. Several thousands of the machines have already been sent to the front.

TWO APPLETON OFFICIALS SUBJECT TO RECALL

Appleton, Wis., Aug. 21.—A list of charges so long that it looked as if they took in everything under the statutes and the laws of Moses was preferred against Mayor August Gerlach here and also against Commissioner H. W. Tuttle. The charges were at the head of a petition being circulated by political enemies of the two office-holders. One of the charges against Mayor Gerlach is that he accepted a bribe to a circus and was wont to suppress free speech. An attempt is being made to recall the officials.

ESTIMATE THE LOSS OF LIFE IN SOUTH TO BE AROUND 300

Governor Ferguson Telegraphs President That Total Dead Will Not Exceed Three Hundred.

Washington, Aug. 21.—Governor Ferguson of Texas today telegraphed President Wilson that loss of life from the tropical storm along the Texas coast will not exceed 300, and estimated the damage had been greatly exaggerated. He said the situation was under control.

Two Hundred Dead.
Galveston, Aug. 21.—Total known deaths from the hurricane both for Galveston Island and the mainland of south Texas today stood at 200.

W. A. Krauss, a surfman at the San Luis coast guard station, arrived here safely last night from Texas City, following a distressing experience in the hurricane. Krauss, according to his story, remained in the water continuously almost forty hours, swimming and floating a distance of more than thirty miles as the crew flies. He was making inquiries concerning the fate of his wife, to whom he was married twenty days ago.

ITALIAN AIR FLEET DEFEATS AUSTRIANS

Three Austrian Aeroplanes Brought Down and Crews Killed or Captured in Battle Over Adriatic.

Paris, Aug. 21.—Italian aeroplanes defeated an Austrian squadron on the Adriatic coast, according to a dispatch to the Figaro from Turin. Three of the Austrian machines were brought down and their crews were either killed or became prisoners. The Figaro correspondent says that the Italian squadron forced an engagement upon the Austrians after a long chase. The Italian aviators returned to their base without loss or injury.

PLANS FOR CREATION OF MILITIA IN CUBA AS SECOND DEFENSE LINE

Havana, Cuba, Aug. 21.—Tentative plans are in process of formation by Colonel Jose Marti, chief of the general staff of the Cuban army, for the creation of a national militia as a second line of defense in the event of war. All Cuban citizens of military age, of good repute and capable of passing the regular medical examination, are eligible for enlistment and the organization, equipment and arming of the force will be uniform with the regular army. Officers and men will be required to attend drills twice a week and their arms will be kept in the barracks of the regulars to be issued only for drills or when the militia is called into active service. No estimate has been made as to the probable strength of the force that can be raised. No limitation is placed on the enlistment and it is believed that the service will prove very popular in Havana and the other principal cities.

TWICE THE NUMBER OF GERMAN FAMILIES NOW RECEIVING AID

Berlin, Aug. 21.—More than twice as many soldiers' families in Berlin are receiving public support today than in July, the number being 141,680, against 62,980 in July. The sum paid out, however, had almost quadrupled. It was $1,255,000 in June, compared with $320,000 in the first month of the war. In addition to this, $275,000 was paid out for rent allowances, a sum nearly double that paid in March, and almost 50 per cent. more than the May allowances. A total of $9,940,000 has been paid out since the beginning of the war for the care of the families left behind.

LEGISLATURE ADJOURNS UNTIL TUESDAY WHEN THEY WILL ADJOURN SINE DIE.

BUDGET BILLS SIGNED

Governor Philipp Signs Appropriation Bill for Extension Department.—Reorganization Work Started.

Madison, Aug. 21.—The legislature will adjourn today at noon until two o'clock Tuesday, August 24, when it will adjourn sine die. The assembly sustained the Governor's veto of the Heim bill. Five assemblymen and three senators were present at the session today.

Governor Philipp has signed the appropriation bill for the extension division of the university carrying $206,110 annually, together with $5,000 annually for books and apparatus. He also approved of the bill licensing butter and cheese makers. Such producers must take out a license from the dairy and food commissioner, paying nominal fee and guaranteeing to keep their factories in an improved and sanitary condition under penalty of being closed up.

Other bills signed are: Reorganizing the board of public affairs, making it a budget making body, and providing for a secretary of experience and investigating ability; appropriating for the support of the state auditor, secretary of state department and Wisconsin industrial school for girls; placing the collection of taxes from the insurance companies for the purpose of the state to the state fire marshal on the same basis, and the revisors curative bill No. 639 S.

Governor Philipp vetoed the Cross-bill for direct marketing of farm produce. He signed the Richards bill giving railroad commission power to apportion expense in depressing spur tracks, to industries upon the municipality has been benefited.

GOVERNMENT TO BUY SILVER FOR MINTS

Will Purchase Five Hundred Thousand Ounces Because of Decreased Price and Increased Demand.

Washington, Aug. 21.—The treasury will buy 500,000 ounces of silver for the Philadelphia mint, bringing its silver purchases for the month up to 2,000,000 ounces. The bullion will be stamped into dimes, quarters and half dollars, for which the latter half of every calendar year brings a new demand. It was announced that the treasury had taken advantage of low price of silver. The price paid ranges between 47 and 48 cents a fine ounce.

CLAIMS SONS KILLED FATHER WITH CLUB

Both Are Bound Over for Trial on Murder Charges.—One Is Said to Have Confessed.

Green Bay, Wis., Aug. 21.—Julius and Jappert Herms must stand trial on the charge of murdering their father, Albert Herms, on his farm near Bondage on the night of August 10. The two sons were bound over to stand trial in circuit court in December at the close of the preliminary examination today by Justice Butth. The day after the murder Julius confessed to District Attorney A. M. Andrews. That official claims that he caused his father's death by striking him on the head with a club. Then Julius implicated Jappert, the district attorney claims.

INCREASE IN RESERVE FUND SHOWN BY REPORT

New York, Aug. 21.—The actual condition of clearing house banks and trust companies for the week show they hold $192,587,820 reserve in excess of legal requirements. This is an increase of $5,354,905 over last week.

RUSSIAN ARMY FORCED TO LAST LINE

GERMAN-AUSTRIAN FORCES CONTINUE TO ADVANCE THROUGH POLAND TOWARD MOSCOW.

ITALY PREPARES A NOTE

Waiting for Some Definite Action By the Balkan Nations Before Resuming Active Fighting in the West Front.

London, Aug. 21.—Three Russian warships and one German, all small vessels, have been sunk in the battle of the Gulf of Riga. The announcement came today. Two other German ships were put out of commission in the battle, one being run ashore and the other damaged during the engagement.

London, Aug. 21.—The Russian field armies are fighting desperately but vainly to check the onrush of the Germans and Austrians. Novogeorgievsk, the last Polish fortress to hold out, has fallen. Osovetz, to the north of Poland has resisted the invaders thus far, only because of the marshy nature of the surrounding country, which prevents the Germans from employing their heavy guns effectively.

South of Brest-Litovsk, field marshal von Mackensen's forces have penetrated far beyond the Bay. Other German armies east of the river render a serious Russian defense along the Bialystok-Brest-Litovsk line virtually impossible.

In Gulf of Riga.
The mysterious naval battle in the gulf of Riga was still in progress at the time of latest report from Petrograd, which, however, gave no details as to the magnitude of the action.

After forty-eight hours of unusual activity, resulting in a heavy toll of merchantmen, the navy and the naval zone German submarines apparently have been withdrawn to their bases. Belief is expressed that White Star liner Bowdoin is safe in port.

Capture Town.
The Germans have captured the Russian town of Bielsk, twenty-five miles south of Bialystok, and have driven the Russians out of the Biala river according to official announcement given out today by German army headquarters staff.

Crush Zeppelin.
Russian gunners have brought down a Zeppelin that was approaching Vilna, according to dispatch reaching London from Reuters telegraph company today.

Details of Capture.
Berlin, via London, Aug. 21.—A special dispatch to the Lokal Anzeiger under date of August 20 gives the following details of the capture by the Germans of the Russian fortress of Novogeorgievsk:

"The chief attack was carried out from the northeast. After a bombardment of ninety minutes word was received that the important fort No. 2 was still intact and therefore the time had not come for the advance. The bombardment was continued until one o'clock, when the reconnoitering party was attacked.

"At three o'clock Saxon reserves began to storm the Russian position. The Russians ceased shooting and surrendered. The Saxon forces entered.

"Simultaneously fort No. 3 was attacked from the north. Artillery firing was continued until 2:45 o'clock, at which time German cheers could be heard.

Huge Supplies Taken.
"Abandoned cannon were everywhere, and near Alexandrinskaya cemetery were numerous batteries. There were huge supplies of ammunition in the fort.

"At four o'clock German shouts of victory were heard from fort No. 1, to the southward, and at five o'clock from the northwestern portion of the citadel. The Russian forces were consuming the officers' quarters, haystacks and the supply depot and causing an explosion of ammunition.

"Thousands gave themselves up as prisoners.

AUSTRIA WILL PAY $4,000 FOR HEAD OF POET D'ANNUNZIO

Gabriele d'Annunzio.

To the man who will cut off the head of Gabriele d'Annunzio and present it to the aged emperor of Austria the handsome reward of $4,000 will be paid. D'Annunzio is the poet who urged Italy to fight Austria, and this explains why the Austrian government is so eager to have his head. Recently d'Annunzio dropped his poems from an aeroplane while flying over the Austrian city of Trieste.

BLAME CONDITIONS FOR POOR SCORES

Traps in Grand American Handicap Give Reason for the Low Scores Made by All Gunners in Tourney.

Janesville trap shooters returning from the Grand American Handicap tournament, which was completed yesterday, had nothing favorable to say on the condition of the Grant park grounds where the targets were thrown over the lake. Poor scores throughout marked the tournament and this is shown by the fact that the winner, L. B. Clarke of Chicago, scored only 96 out of a 100, while Dreyfus of Milwaukee, who won the Janesville registered tourney, scored 98 in the shoot here. L. L. Nickerson led the local men with a score of 83, W. W. Lawler 80, and H. L. McNamara 75, this score being far below their usual averages. H. Thometz and John Heimer withdrew from the tourney, not shooting the last frames.

Shooting over water was a new thing to the Janesville men and all report that it is hard to follow the targets, let alone put the gun sights on them quick enough for good scores. The reflection from the water makes the sight greatly and the wind that came from the lake caused the "birds" to waver from their course in a most tricky manner. The next shoot which the Janesville men will take part in will be held at Capron, next Tuesday, in the later City League-Beloit, Rockford, Capron and Janesville.

L. B. Clarke, winner of the tourney, despite a supine nerve in the shoot-off necessary to break the tie. Clark, who is a banker, went straight in the shoot-off despite the fact that he has been a trap shooter for only a little over a year. The Janesville men explain his success due to practice over the Grant park traps and being used to shooting over water.

TOUR A GREAT HELP TO COUNTY FARMERS

Prof. Otis and Miss Kelley Give Valuable Information to Rural Residents.

Information pertaining to the farm, all of which was of an enhancing value to the rural farmer and his family, was circulated on Friday on the tour of Rock county, having been given by Prof. Otis and Miss Elizabeth Kelley, both of the state university. The party of 105 people, including four farmers, their wives and university instructors from throughout the state, and over sixty Beloit, Janesville and other county people, visited ten farms Friday and report a trip of thorough instruction, in which the two persons named served as teachers. The visit of the state party to Janesville and Beloit proved a big help in the coming contests in farm management. Rock county, having won five big prizes in 1914, the interest was more noticeable, and prospects for successful contests both in this county and in the state next year never were better.

INVESTIGATE STRANGER WHO PASSED CHECK HERE

Police are searching for a stranger giving the name of A. E. Ruttenbeck, age between thirty and thirty-five years, who succeeded in passing a traveler's check to the amount of $10 at the Parker Pen company this morning. Because the check is signed in an improper place, the authorities look upon the check with suspicion. It had been sent to the bank in Iowa on which the check was drawn to learn if it is good or not. Ruttenbeck purchased a pen costing five dollars and received five dollars in change at the Parker Pen office and then departed.

JAPANESE PROFESSOR TO VISIT UNITED STATES TO STUDY HOSPITALS

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)
Tokio, Aug. 21.—Dr. Seishu Kiohichi, professor of gynecology and obstetrics at the Imperial university, has been designated by the government to visit the United States to make an extensive tour and study of the American hospitals. The visit is viewed by the Japanese as being of great importance. Japan is seeking steadfastly to improve her hospitals and to advance in medicine and surgery. She desires to learn more of the achievements in the United States. A dinner of farewell was arranged by Dr. R. B. Teasler, director of St. Luke's hospital, who hosted Dr. Kiohichi at one of the formal meals in the medical profession. Dr. Kiohichi, the minister of education, was present and spoke of the value of the work of Dr. Teasler and his associates. The meeting developed the fact that plans are rapidly progressing for the establishment of the proposed international hospital at Tokyo.

Italy an Ancient Nation.

Italy may fairly claim to be senior among the nations of Europe so far as its name is concerned. The peninsula has been "Italia" almost as far back as even legend reaches. According to Mommsen the "Itali" proper were the inhabitants of the southern part of the country. As to the origin of the name, there is the normal legend of a King Italus; but his name must have been pronounced Vitalus or Vitulus, which means a bull-calf, and it is easy to recognize in it an allusion to Italy as the land of cattle.

Burdens of the Ass.

To know what hat goes with which boots, and what collar and the with what coat and waistcoat, and what costume is appropriate at ten o'clock in the morning and what at ten o'clock in the evening, and to know the names of the head waiters of the principal restaurants are minor matters. These are the conveniences of the gentleman, but the characteristic burdens of the ass. Such a mental equipment is not the stuff of which soldiers, sailors, statesmen, explorers or governors are made.—Exchange.

UNITED BRETHREN CHURCH HOLDS ITS CONFERENCE AT RICHLAND CENTER

Reverend Charles J. Roberts of this city, superintendent of the Wisconsin conference of the United Brethren church, is today closing up the work of the year preparatory to the annual conference which will be held at Richland Center, beginning Wednesday, September 1st. Mr. Roberts went to Lima, Center today, where he will conduct the quarterly meeting tonight and will preach Sunday morning. He will deliver a sermon at the local church tomorrow evening and conduct the quarterly meeting here on Monday night. Rev. J. A. Robinson, pastor of the Janesville church, has enjoyed a successful trip to Europe. He is now in Indianapolis, Ind., will preside at the sessions of the state conference.

POLICE OFFICERS SEARCH FOR TWO NEGROES AT NOON

Receiving a call at noon today that two negroes answering the descriptions of the men wanted in the Milwaukee police heretofore, made a thorough search along the railroad tracks above the Hanson furniture factory. A trip to the river banks and the bushes near the quarter negroes were found. One tramp who questioned reported that he met a negro walking to Milton early this morning. The negroes were seen this morning and the search party did not have notice of the fact until nearly noon.

The total assessed valuation of Beloit according to the figures received from the city clerk by County Clerk W. Lee for 1915, is $1,114,802, or $263,022 higher than for the year 1914. Despite this fact Beloit's assessment is $1,239,775 lower than Janesville's, as announced on Friday. The total value of real estate in Beloit is $1,044,487, and of personal property is $70,315. Beloit has 423 automobiles, according to the returns, which are valued at $183,365.

LOSES SECTION OF FINGER IN MEAT SLICING MACHINE AT A. G. METZINGER MARKET

Joseph Galloway, 615 West Milwaukee street, a butcher employed at the A. G. Metzinger market, lost the tip of the index finger of his left hand this morning while engaged in working the meat slicing machine. The sharp knife completely severed the member just below the nail and above the first joint.

IS MINISTER AGAIN TO SANTO DOMINGO

William W. Russell, who was asked by W. J. Bryan to retire from the post of minister to the Dominican Republic in order that James M. Sullivan, more "deserving Democrat," might be appointed to the place, has now been reinstated by President Wilson. Sullivan recently was forced to retire because of charges preferred against him. Mr. Russell is a native of Washington and has been in the American diplomatic corps for years, working up to the grade of minister from that of secretary.

WHITE SOX SECURE JACKSON ON FRIDAY

President Comiskey Purchases Cleveland Star Slugger at Fancy Price—Sax and Cubs Beaten.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.) Chicago, Aug. 21.—President Comiskey of the Chicago Americans, secured today his fat money but yesterday and dug up a new and valuable player for Joe Jackson, one of the best sluggers in the American league, who was purchased from Cleveland. Jackson will be in the Sox lineup today against New York, and will replace Leibold. Jackson was obtained only when the Sox backed out three other clubs, Boston, Washington and New York, who had opened negotiations for the Cleveland star.

Both Earl Cooper, the California road race champion, and Gil Anderson, who finished one, two in the Chicago trophy race Friday, at a record pace, are conceded a good chance in today's race, and the interest centers on these three drivers. Anderson won two years ago and desires to repeat.

In Friday's race the small entry list kept the interest down and when De Palma went out on the 21st lap, after the stop on the rocky arm, Cooper, Anderson and the veteran Oldfield, with his new French DeLage, lead the field. Cooper wrestled the lead from his teammate and finished with an average of 74.97 miles per hour. The victory of Cooper and Anderson is hailed as a real Yankee triumph, as they drove purely American machines. The Stutz. The order of finish with driver, car, time and average per mile:

Time, hour. Ave. miles. Cooper, Stutz, 4:01:22 74.97. Anderson, Stutz, 4:05:04 73.56. Oldfield, DeLage, 4:09:55 73.46. Alley, Ogren, 4:14:29 71.16. O'Donnell, Duesenberg, 4:15:40 70.83. Brown, Du Chesneau, out at 217. Millard, Duesenberg, flagged at 184 miles. De Palma, Mercedes, withdrew at 176 miles. Justin, Cornelian, stripped gear at 92 miles.

Probably the first and chief thing to consider in connection with the introduction of ten-cent baseball that has been started by the Federal League is whether the quality of the game will be affected.

One way or another, by the reduction in price, the country is watching the experiment with alive interest and from the present standpoint there does not seem much chance for its success.

One thing advanced is that it will fill up the vacant seats in the bleachers and this remains to be seen, for the average fan does not care for the extra time he has to pay, no matter how much it is ten cents or a dollar. It is a sure thing that the big cut is bound to lower the receipts and it becomes a matter of financial necessity to reduce the salary of the players to meet the means of the players.

Attempts at free baseball have not been successful, so it all comes down to the point that if the fans do not want cheap baseball and if the players do not want a cut in their pay for ten-cent baseball, the Athletics ever had.

NEW RECORD MADE IN PUGILISTIC FINANCE

McFarland to Receive $583 Per Minute in Battle With Mike Gibbons.

GOLF TITLE EVENTS ON

Baseball Under Big League System Will Be Played in Cuba Next Year—Johnson Has Been Pitching Eight Years.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York, Aug. 21.—New heights in ring finance were reached in the signing of Packey McFarland and Mike Gibbons to box in thirty-three weeks from today. These two glove artists agreed to box ten rounds without decision for a purse of $32,500, of which McFarland is to receive $17,500 and Gibbons $15,000. No title will be involved and even though a knockout occur the result will be without championship value.

Under the circuitous way of the pay, $583 per minute to McFarland and $500 per minute to Gibbons establishes what is undoubtedly a new record in limited round pugilism.

Owing to the boxing skill and reputations of these modern ring generals the gate receipts are quite likely to exceed by several thousand dollars the purse and other incidental expenses but there is nothing in local pugilistic history to warrant the idea that the receipts will approach the figures reached in the famous battles of the past.

The largest gate receipts ever recorded at a bout in New York were $68,300, taken in at the Jeffries-Sharkey twenty-five round battle, fought at Coney Island, November 3, 1899.

The fight between Jim Corbett and Kid McCoy, during the closing days of the Horton law, under which some of the greatest bouts of modern ring history were fought, netted $56,350 at the gate. Championship fights in Nevada, Australia and several other points have drawn larger gates, but no famous fighters, including Nelson Garfield, have been in the United States since Corbett and McCoy.

German Athletes Killed.

The European war has taken its toll of German athletes as well as from the other nations engaged in the great conflict. Among the latest reports from Berlin is one to the effect that the annual full races of the German Motorboat club, which were to be held at the Nuggelssee near Berlin, have been cancelled. The fact that many motorboat owners with their craft have joined the Volunteer Motorboat Corps, and the necessity of saving gasoline are the reasons assigned. The cancellation of the races for the second time deals the motorboat sport a heavy blow, for there has been nothing along the line since the Baltic Sea trip of the Imperial motorboat club in June, 1914. The club in announcing the cancellation, says that nothing is planned for the immediate future.

An intercontinental return match between the racquet stars of the Pacific and Atlantic coasts appears to be a certainty. The eastern tennis players are keen to meet their western counterparts again, holding that they can retrieve on grass the honors lost on the asphalt courts of the far west. The National association officials are planning to stage the matches at Forest Hills, following the national championship tournament.

League Ball in Cuba.

Baseball under big league system will be played in Cuba next season. The new organization will be known as the Federal league and in the future the game will be governed in the same manner as it is in the United States. A national commission, umpires, contracts and all the apparatus of the league baseball will figure in the Cuban organization in the future.

The members of the Syracuse university football team will be able to qualify as veteran globe trotters when the 1915 gridiron season has ended. No eastern college eleven of recent years has faced as many and as long jumps as the Orange school.

For this fall, with a season which begins at home on September 25 and ends at Portland, Ore., on December 1.

The team starts touring on October 9, when Princeton will be played at Princeton. The following Saturday Rochester will be met at home and a week later the Salt Lake City eleven will go to Providence to face Brown.

After an absence of over a month, the Arbor will be back on October 30, for the purpose of playing Yost's University of Michigan gridiron team. The first two Saturdays of November will be spent at Syracuse entertaining Mt. Union and Colgate. Dartmouth will follow on November 20 and then the Orange eleven will trek westward. Thanksgiving Day will see the team engaged with the University of Montana players at Missoula and on December 1 Syracuse will close an exceedingly busy season by tackling the Oregon Agricultural college team at Portland, Ore.

Pitches Eight Years.

Walter Perry Johnson, mainstay of the Washington American League club pitching staff, completed eight years of twirling service for Clark Griffith on the first of the month. Johnson joined the Washington team August 1, 1907, while still in his teens. His big circuit debut, made against the Detroit Tigers and although he allowed six hits, he was only defeated 3 to 2 after a close game. During eight years with the Washington club, Johnson has played in

MAKE GOOD RECORDS IN PLAYGROUND MEET

TWO HUNDRED BOYS AND GIRLS TAKE PART IN THIRD ANNUAL TRACK AND FIELD CONTEST.

WEBSTER WINS HONOR

Youngsters of Fourth Ward Get Mark of 97 With Jefferson Playground Second With 59—Several Star Athletes.

About two hundred boys and girls took part in the third annual track and field meet of the Janesville playgrounds, held yesterday afternoon at the fair grounds. All the events were closely contested and were only decided after very close competition. In the number of points secured by the playgrounds, the Webster was second with 59, Adams third with 47, followed by the Washington, who scored but 9.

The meet was a complete success, both from the number of entries and the records made. The number of children who took part far exceeded that of any previous year. Some of the records made were excellent or boys and girls of their age. Robert Kenning made a record in the high jump which is expected to stand for some time. Although only fifteen years old, he cleared the bar at four feet, eleven inches. He did not attempt to go higher because of no competition.

The points secured by the Adams and Jefferson school athletes were more evenly divided than those made by the Webster. The entrants, Robert Kenning, Margaret, Margaret, Kenning and Carrie Young, carried off all the honors for the winners by capturing sixty points alone. The Kenning brothers performed in regular championship style, leaving all others in the rear. Webster, the younger brother, competing in the twelve to fourteen-year-old class, made eighteen points, while Robert garnered fifteen.

At the conclusion of the athletic events the quail tournament was held. The Adams school captured most of the points, thus placing themselves in a close race with the Jefferson for second position. Edward Allen, representing the Washington school, was high point winner.

A busy week is arranged for the playground children, beginning Monday afternoon, when the Webster and Adams school indoor baseball teams clash at the Washington ground to decide the championship of the league. Both teams are in readiness for the contest. Each team has won a game from the other, the game Monday being the final meeting. On Tuesday, the third annual swimming meet will be held at Goose Island, starting at two o'clock. Wednesday, the tennis championship will be staged, while on Thursday the joint hike of all the playgrounds will be taken down on Saturday and put away for the winter.

Friday will be the last day of the playgrounds, as the apparatus will be taken down on Saturday and put away for the winter.

LEAGUE STANDING CHANGED WHEN TEAM FORFEITS GAME

The standing of the Commercial league teams was materially altered when the Lewis Knitting company forfeited games to the Parker Pen company and the Y. M. C. A. Two games were handed to the "Pens" and one to the "Christians," giving the former aggregation a firm hold on first place. August 28 the "Pens" will play the Y. M. C. A. and will take on the Parker Pen company today. Even though they win both games they could not but tie the "Pens." Standing of the clubs:

W. L. Pct. Parker Pen Co. 2 2 .750. Y. M. C. A. 5 3 .625. Railroad 4 3 .571. Lewis Knitting Co. 1 8 .111.

TENNIS ENTRIES NOT IN HURRY TO FINISH

The Y. M. C. A. tennis tournament is not progressing as fast as it started out, first being delayed by weather conditions and later by side attractions, including the Janesville fair. Now that the grounds are in excellent condition and weather is first class, the management is urging members of the club to arrange for their games so that contenders for semi-final honors may be determined and the final match played. There are a few who have not played off their preliminary games yet and thus delay the men in the second round, who lack only one in that section.

Kline, Smith, Carpenter, Eickman and Lovejoy are now entered in the second round. Kline took his match in the first round from Huebel by 7 to 5 and 6 to 1. Smith beat Mason by default and Carpenter defeated Brewer 6 to 0, 4 to 6 and 6 to 2.

After doing bench duty for two years because of a lame arm, Catcher Jack Roche of the St. Louis Cardinals will visit Hot Springs and take the baths for rheumatism. The club physician seems to have been a long time in making up his mind as to what ailed the arm, but better late than never.

SIDE LIGHTS on THE CIRCUS BUSINESS

By D. W. WATT.

"Barnum & Bailey's Greatest Show on Earth," as it is called, is a show that will agree with me, when I say it surely made good, and that they still keep the quality up and the quantity down. I walked on to the show grounds, everything in the big show carried me back many years. For although the Ringling Brothers have owned and managed the show for many years, there was not a Ringling to be seen, and many faces that were familiar to me and have been for years were in the show. In fact more or less of what might be termed old-timers were still to be seen all over the show.

The first one to greet me was Charles Hutchinson, who always wears a smile and always had a kind word for his friends. Charlie is the ticket agent and treasurer, and for many years has been in the management of the show, and was educated in the business by his uncle, James A. Bailey, whose name the show still bears.

And there is always a place around a great show like this for such a man as Charlie Hutchinson, and will be as long as stakes are driven and canvas raised.

The next one to greet me was Jay Rial, the genial press agent who has filled his responsible position with the show for many years. Jay had many questions to ask me about what I was doing, and if I still made Janesville my home, and if I did not feel at times as though I should again be back in the business, he said he, "you are one of the few who were prominent in the business some years ago that quietly dropped away and retired." Jay Rial well knew that my eyesight was bad, and that I was seated in the front row as close to the performance as it was possible to get, and true to his calling, he smilingly said, "I want you and your party to see it all, for we are meeting it. It is the greatest show on earth. Before we reached our seats in the big tent, we were greeted several times by a few old-timers, and prominent in the business, but the kind that I am always glad to meet. We had scarcely got located and ready for the grand entry to appear, when Eddie Silbon of the Segrist and Silbon Aerial Artists greeted us and said: "Wait a minute until I go and get Toddo Segrist. For, don't you know, hundreds of times we talked over the old days of the Forrester show, and the many good times that we have had on long Sunday runs, and the fried chicken lunches we used to eat in your state room." Segrist was soon there, and we visited until the bell tapped for the grand entry in which they had to take part, and the visit was only cut short.

Eddie Silbon and his companions were brought over from England by Adam Forepaugh, in 1882, the Segrist boys, seven in number, four men and three women, did the high aerial act in the top of the great tent where they turned double somersaults from one side of the canvas to the other. Eddie Silbon at that time was small, by wearing knee pants. Today he is a man forty-eight years of age, and the only one of the great Silbon family still living. Toddo Segrist and Silbon act is still as high class as ever, and Toddo Segrist, the one who turns the double somersaults, is now and then a man past fifty years of age, and he says his work is as easy as it ever was, and that he never worked sorer, seldom missing the catch from the other side of the canvas.

After the show was over, I was taken back into the dressing room and introduced to many high class people in the business, who were strangers to me. One, a man named Bradna, the equestrian director, who a few years ago came from Strasburg, Ala. Lorraine, where his father and mother and wife were living, and which, as many of you know, lies in the war zone, near where much of the hard fighting is going on. And I only had to be in the show for a few minutes to know that a equestrian director was a high class man.

for the show was running like clock work without a second being lost. A high class equestrian director with one of the big shows is an important factor, for it is his business to see that the show goes with a hurrah, and in all out and over the top, and then the show is over. The Silbon and Segrist Aerial act is the last act before the hippodrome commences, and their daring acts high in midair never fails to send the people away from the great show with a thrill.

One of the new features with the show is the nine elephants playing baseball. The act alone simply sets the people wild. The umpire with his mask and chest protector on, standing well up to the battery, and watching every move that was made, and after they had played for a few minutes the umpire called down the pitcher. The pitcher laid the ball down on the plate, and walking over to the catcher, he threw a few things in his ear, and walked back and picked up his ball. When the umpire thought he discovered that the pitcher and the catcher was putting up a new act, hundreds of voices were heard all over the canvas saying, "Play ball! Play ball!"

Another new feature was a large black grizzly bear who roared and growled on the platform as few men could ride one, and when this was over, they put four roller skates on him, and he rode on the skates, and would have done credit to a professional. But the great show had so many new features, and high class ones, that to mention all of them would take too much space, but the general verdict of the crowd was that they had made good their claim of the greatest show on earth.

For many years back the greatest circus has been the name of Toddo Hamilton. For many years he was connected with the Barnum and Bailey show, and if anything new and wonderful appeared in connection with the great show, it was always credited to Toddo Hamilton. And now he is the owner of the great show, which is being erected at Luna Park. The following letter tells the story of Toddo's new adventure:

Toddo Hamilton, the only man who ever lost an elephant in Manhattan and would not be comforted, says, and if Toddo Hamilton (who once lost two lions and a tiger near Forty-Second street and Broadway) says a thing is true, then it's true whether it's true or not—Toddo Hamilton says that Luna Park is about to raise an elephant, which is a living man can borrow, let alone steal.

The umbrella will cover an acre of Luna Park ground, so it was said by Toddo Hamilton, who for years ago said that a baby giraffe was born annually in Madison Square garden on the night Barnum & Bailey came to town. First of all, a steel umbrella, which was to be constructed in Luna and the handle will be 140 feet high, so it was said by Toddo Hamilton—who was the first man to reveal the news that Silvers, the clown, was the first to strike gold in Alaska.

The umbrella will be steel-ribbed, covered with circus tent canvas, and will be raised and lowered by machinery, according to a statement issued by Toddo Hamilton, who once crossed hoop snakes with puff adders while with the Barnum show and raised thereby a crop of living automobile tires.

Five thousand persons will be able to enjoy the cool shade under the umbrella. A searchlight with rays shooting for ten miles in the air will be used to illuminate the show, and the cost, $25,000, according to Toddo Hamilton, who added that he had just turned down an offer made by Colonel Roosevelt to stock the Luna lagoon with his correspondence school of man-eating fish.

Where two school districts are consolidated by a vote of the people the state will pay one-half of the cost of erecting a one-room rural school in the union district, provided that not more than $1,000 be paid to any one school district.

On State Aid.

The number of high schools of the state that may offer winter courses for country boys and girls and receive special state aid is increased from ten to fifteen.

The compulsory age for attendance at industrial schools is changed, is increased from 16 to 17 years. A minor in employment between the ages of 16 and 17 years must attend such school in the daytime at least five hours a week for six months.

There has been an increase in the amount of state aid for the maintenance of county training schools for the blind. The old law limited the aid on the basis of the number of teachers employed. The new law gives additional aid where the school is maintained for more than nine months of the year.

No school book company shall offer any text book for sale, adoption or exchange in Wisconsin until an agreement has been made and a bond given to the effect that the publisher will pay the cost of the books in Wisconsin and be responsible for the sale of the books in any state of the Union.

During the last days of the session the old county board of education law was repealed and then was substituted in its place a committee of common schools consisting of three persons to be appointed by the county board of supervisors. This bill provides that the county board of supervisors must fix the salary of the county superintendent, must grant him all his printing, postage and expenses and may provide for his assistants in his office. The committee of common schools must, on the nomination of the county superintendent, appoint one supervising teacher in each county and two where there are more than 125 schools under the direction of the county superintendent. The salary and traveling expenses of the supervising teachers are to be paid by the state.

The Bennett bill for the state aid to rural school teachers is still in the hands of the governor, but as he recommended it in his special message to the legislature, there is no doubt about his approval of it. In this law are provisions to encourage high school graduates to take special training before entering rural school work.

Repeal Old Law.

Each school board of education must purchase at the expense of the district a flag, which must be displayed from a flag staff on the school grounds or from the school building during reasonable weather.

Non-Resident Students.

Persons residing in school districts not maintaining a high school or state graded school of the first class may attend any high school or any state graded school offering instruction in the ninth and tenth grades and have the tuition become a charge upon the town in which the pupils reside. There is a clause in the bill that such pupils shall be in the course of study in the district and have been in the district for a year.

On the ages of 14 in cities maintaining schools, who is not required to attend a high school, attending a high school, or four hours a week for six months, or four hours a week for eight months.

On the Spur of the Moment

ROY K. MOULTON

The Hickeyville Clarion. The engagement of Lemuel Hicks and Miss Fanny Tibbitts, the charming and accomplished daughter of William Tibbitts, our merchant prince, who keeps the general store, has been broken off suddenly. They were sitting in the hammock the other night when Mr. Lefe Perkins, who is a bitter rival of Mr. Hicks for the hand of the fair lady, sneaked up behind him and cut the rope, and they hit the floor with a dull and sickening thud. Mr. Hicks landed on a flat flask of Old Moonshine which he had in his pocket and the contents of the same splashed all over the porch. After seeing the licker, Miss Tibbitts called the engagement off. Mr. Hicks claims that Mr. Perkins had a pocketful of blue chips when he cut the rope, and while he was busy engaged otherwise.

Every time Hank Tumms goes to a little friendly 10-cent limit game he takes a pocketful of blue chips with him. He says a feller can never tell when he will need a few chips and need 'em bad. The bank is always $9 loser when Hank sits in the game.

Handling the City Boats. In the neighborhood of Whitehall, Michigan, they have large numbers of city visitors in the summer. The Whitehall Forum has presented the following suggestions for the treatment of these people by the natives: "Treat them gently, hand them with care, for though they may not be marked 'fragile' they are as babes in the woods."

Give freely of your store of knowledge, that they may return to the abode of innocents with wisdom to spare, for as we give in this life so shall we receive in the one to come.

Instruct them carefully in the fine arts of the milking of the cow, the feeding of the fowls and the pitching of the hay, and smile not when they ask you to remove a thick yellow scum from their milk.

Assure them that when the cock crows at break of day it is not an alarm of fire, nor an earthquake, and neither is it a signal for lights out in the bar room.

Awake them at noon for their morning repast, and warn them of the bull and the snake and the business end of the goat, and of all the snares that beset the unwary in the field of adventure.

Give them your responsibility. Give it heed."

The Donkey's Head. Oh, Patrick was an Irishman. For sport he had a "Mick." Because he was so handy with a shovel and a pick. Pat worked upon the section gang. As Irishman will do. And with him were two Englishmen laboring there too. The Britishers—two foxy wights—had thought they'd play a trick while Pat was working with his shovel and his pick. Not being of a nimble wit. They thought it quite a joke to paint a donkey's head upon the back of Pat's coat. Pat noticed it immediately. "The democratic stamp—'Shure, G'm a shovelin' O'irishman. And turnin' to the Englishmen. Who thought they had his goat. Says: 'Which wan of yez wiped his face Upon me Sunday coat?'"

Our Sympathy Old Top. I sent my summer suit to an amateur cleaner near our house the other day and he used the gasoline he could buy at a nearby garage.

"Now when I walk around I am completely surrounded by an aroma that causes my eyes to sting and the other side of the street. When I go into an office somebody always yells: 'Who let the Ford in?'"

"It is positively dangerous to light a match in my vicinity and haven't had a smoke in a week. No more patronizing home industries for me."

I don't expect to ever be happy until I go and bury these clothes."—L. P.

Three inches above the knee is the legal limit for bathing suits at Atlantic City. Well, it does seem to be about the limit at that.

The Rival. A pal named Jim, he set about, By gingerpop, to cut me out. He saw her home from singin' school, And carried on just like a fool. She seemed to like him pretty good; I thought he was a truer sure. But wimmen have peculiar ways; To take 'em servus' never pays. It drove me dippy, yes, it did, When she looked at some other kid. When Jim fussed round and stroked her hair, She said 'twas none of my affair. And finally she said she guessed That she liked Jim a mile the best. That feller was a truer sure. He knowed my love for her was pure. He acted like a measly bloke, Although he knowed my heart was true.

I lost my faith in wimmin kind And thought I'd almost lost my mind. It lasted only 'bout a week, And I got even, so to speak. I've got a sweeter revenge on Jim, For later on she married him."

Amusements

(Notices furnished by the theatres.)

AT MYERS THEATRE. Griffith's "Birth of a Nation" Coming. The greatest, most wonderful and most widely discussed amusement attraction that ever endured, D. W. Griffith's incomparable "Birth of a Nation," has been booked by Manager Myers and will be brought to the Myers Theatre for one week.

As the immense spectacular has up the flag in every magazine and newspaper throughout the land for the past several months—despite the European war—the people, as elsewhere, are entirely too familiar with it to need special mention of the subject matter or to the incredible manner in which it has been handled—it is simply the one, supreme wonder of modern attractions and seats are this very day selling weeks in advance in New York, Chicago and all the great cities where it is playing.

It will be presented here precisely in every detail as it was in those cities, effects, both sound and optical, music and everything else.

Many pieces and a celestrial conductor accompanies each scene and all the huge apparatus for producing the effects, etc., manned with a small army of electricians, machinists, etc., are carried by the company, which is one of the largest traveling organizations on the road today.

AT MYERS THEATRE. NEW FILMS TO BE SHOWN. AT MYERS THEATRE.

Manager Myers announces that he has secured the rights to the famous travel films produced by George Kleine and known as "Kleine's Film Tour in Foreign Lands." It is said by those who have seen these delightful travelogues that they are the equal of the renowned Howe pictures, and that's saying a whole lot.

The first "Kleine's Film Tour in Foreign Lands" will be shown at Myers Theatre on Sunday, August 29th.

AT THE APOLLO. Edgar Selwyn in "The Arab." "The Arab," in the picturization of which Edgar Selwyn makes his first photodramatic appearance under the management of the Lasky Feature Play Co., is founded on the play of the same name by Mr. Selwyn himself in which this distinguished star-author-manager made one of his greatest New York personal hits. It will be presented at the Apollo on Monday.

"The Arab" has its scenes laid in Syria and in the extraordinary love story of a young man, Selwyn, the daughter of an American missionary who is loved not only by the bold desert Prince but by the Turkish Governor of the district. The main events of the drama center around a wholesale Christian massacre which has been ordered by the Sultan and from which Selwyn, Mary and her father as well as the pupils of her school. Even though he is suspected by Mary, he invades the very palace of the Governor and saves her from a fate worse to a Western woman than death itself.

In addition to Mr. Selwyn, the cast includes Theodore Roberts, Horace B. Carpenter, Milton Brown, Ray Elmer, Sydney Deane, Gertrude Robinson, Park Jones and Raymond Hatton. The production is the most spectacular ever made by the Lasky company.

AT THE APOLLO. Mary Pickford in "Mistress Nell." Mary Pickford, the celebrated screen star of the Famous Players Film company, who added to her stellar honors in the role of "Mistress Nell," her recent characterization in a five-part feature adaptation of the renowned romantic drama by George Barrington, Jr., will be seen again in this role at the Apollo on Tuesday.

"Mistress Nell," of whom it was said, "England would not be as great without her," was never better portrayed than in the skillful characterization by Mary Pickford. All the varying whims and impulses of the famed character, all her loyalty and

Andrew Mack in a Metro Release De-lights Spectators as "The Ragged Earl."

Those theatre-goers who witnessed the film-romance "The Ragged Earl" at Myers Theatre last evening were given a rare treat. The stage's famous star, Andrew Mack, was seen in the role of Gerald Fitzgerald, the proud but purse-poor Earl of Kildare, whose happy-go-lucky Irish mannerisms endeared him to his audience at once. Mack was ably supported by a most capable company of stars, becomingly costumed in the quaint clothing affected by the people of the

AT THE APOLLO. Hazel Dawn as "Clarissa."

Hazel Dawn, called "The Lady" fame, and more recently seen in the Famous Players comedy film success, "Niobe," returns to the Apollo on Wednesday. In another notable production, "The Ragged Earl," she presents the gifted star as Clarissa in "Gambler's Advocate" by Ronald MacDonald, a powerful combination of tense drama and tender romance.

"Gambler's Advocate" is a tale of politics and love, of crime and misadventure, of small thrills and shivers and yet with a sweetly sentimental situations calculated to speed the passing hour of relaxation and recreation. Seldom has a photoplay contained so many divergent elements of appeal and the resultant variety of interest is certain to commend the subject aside from its inherent attractiveness derived from its possession of Hazel Dawn as the star.

The production includes a number of intensely thrilling scenes, and Miss Dawn is led through a well-dictated series of situations that take full advantage of the possibilities offered by the ingenious plot.

Pictorially, the subject is up to the estimable standard set and consistently maintained by the Famous Players, and many of the scenes are so beautiful as to defy description, aside from the graceful and beautiful Miss Dawn, who is herself one of the prettiest sights ever witnessed on the screen.

The Eagles will have charge of the tickets for this picture.

RUSSIAN EMPRESS EXPRESSES HER THANKS FOR AMERICAN AID

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Petrograd, Aug. 21.—Count Rostoff, secretary to Her Imperial Majesty, the empress, has written a letter to the American Sunday School Association asking that the thanks of the young Tsarevitch be expressed to the children of America for their gift of testaments to Russia.

These testaments are being sent out from the Imperial Winter palace in Petrograd without charge in ambulance trains to all parts of the front. Dr. Kiburn called attention to the fact that the way is open for forwarding any quantity of testaments without any part of the money subscribed by Sunday school children being used for transportation or handling. He has information that the gifts are highly prized by the soldiers.

All here who love Russia and the Russian soldier ask every child in America to give at least one gospel to the noble men who are fighting so bravely and suffering so uncomplainingly, said Dr. Kiburn. "His Imperial Highness, the Tsarevitch, will forward all gospels sent and no children in the world have such opportunity for doing good. The highest child in the land, the future emperor, joins himself with them in the great work they have undertaken."

Motoring Department. The Gazette—For the benefit of readers and myself please answer the following questions. Can dry cells be recharged, and how? Can a 500 storage battery, not being used, be kept in good condition? Also when being used? Is it advisable to have two old shoes sewed together, size 30x32, for road use? If not, why? Dry cells cannot be recharged; when depleted they are practically worthless. It is not the contemplation of the storage battery for a considerable length of time. It is best to disassemble it. Before this is done the battery should be fully charged to the point where the gravity of the electrolyte will not raise further. The electrolyte and separator should then be thrown away into the plates and the case thoroughly washed with clean water and dried. In this condition the battery is ready for storage without further attention. On the other hand if you contemplate not using the battery for a month or more it will be necessary to do this. It should be charged or given a "boost" however about every three weeks or month. While the battery is in storage it is necessary to keep the plates covered with a permanganate of potassium solution. It is not advisable to permit the corrosion. It is not advisable to permit the battery to run down too low. If you have a generating set or car, the battery charging should be taken care of by this. The practice of sewing two old shoes together from works out well. Place have tendency to overheat and thereby aggregate blowouts. On a light car this may be the means of using up the old shoes from the cases. The tire is bound to be less resilient and cause harder riding. All may prove to some advantage in small size tires.

Motoring Department. The Gazette—Kindly publish a good preparation for removing road tar or oil from a car without injuring the paint. The Gazette—If you are on a car or oil should not be permitted to dry on paint. Otherwise it will be very difficult. If at all possible, to remove the stain, use a little oil mixed with kerosene. Use a good brush to remove the tar and oil. The part should be allowed to soak well before attempting to remove it. If there are any stains on the car, they should be removed by using a little oil and rubbing well with clean cloth. If the car has been allowed to dry on the paint and has been penetrated by the tar, then there is nothing which will remove the stain other than repainting.

Motoring Department. The Gazette—I have a 1914 model six-cylinder car. The machine runs but my foot brake works only a little. It always makes an awful grinding noise when I use it. As I am sure the car is in good condition, I just don't know what the trouble is. An Interested Reader. The brake shoes are probably very much worn. All the wear and pull has been in one direction. In reversing it is possible that one of the brake shoes drags a little. This could hardly be overhauled except by replacing or retuning brake shoes and centering same with the drum. It is possible that the brake shoes are set a little too close to the drum. If there is an adjustment at the brake shoe, it is assumed that internal adjustment in the brake rods should be set the readjustment at the brake shoes.

Motoring Department. The Gazette—Will you kindly answer the following questions? Which is the most advisable tire and then three over. The battery switch to magnets or throw over to magnets to use the battery switch? Is it necessary to use the battery switch to use the battery? By using I mean the part that moves the inner tube when the tire comes together. W. B. So long as the motor is turning over at a rate of speed there should be no choice. It is a common practice to switch over to the magnets before doing anything else. The thing in the car is used to prevent the tire from coming together. Motoring Department. The Gazette—Having been a reader of your paper and noting your clever way of answering all the questions as regards the operation and adjustment of automobiles, I take the liberty to request a little information regarding a car we purchased, which is a second hand Cadillac, 1912, Schebler, equipped with Bosch magneto, Delco ignition. We have excellent results running at about thirty miles an hour, when we throttle down to about twelve we get bucking and irregular action, in spite of any adjustment we make. We generate about 30 horsepower and have considerable speed. Two good compression; in fact, so good that we start about all the time on cold compression. Please go into this as thoroughly as you can for us, and advise. H. M. Your suggestion cleaning and adjusting of platinum points. Also see that points of spark plugs are adjusted to about 1-32 of an inch. Perhaps the carburetor is badly Motoring Department. The Gazette—I have a 1913 six-cylinder car. I had back to the factory and had it overhauled. Cylinders bored out, new pistons and rings put in, and she has run hot ever since. Gas is adjusted down low; have cleaned out the water system with lime. Sparks when piston is at top of stroke, the spark level set clear back. Have pump over oil sprayer, they have cut down the oil in the sight glass when I start. Never can get hot before. Any suggestions you could make would be very much appreciated. W. B. The new pistons and rings may be fitted tight and set up additional friction. This should run down after a few hundred miles running. After the parts are set tight more oil should be supplied. Probably you are not using enough oil. If the car has a mud pan, have this set in a time. This will afford the motor better cooling under the circumstances.

Motoring Department. The Gazette—Kindly tell me the cause of the following trouble. Every time I start my motor by the self-starter it makes a thumping and grinding noise. After a while I found the self-starter D. K. and four teeth stripped from the wheel. When the engine stops at this time. HELPFUL HINTS

In fitting new gaskets to an engine it is a matter to remember that water or gas will not pass through the material. The center must be cut out. There have been cases where uncut gaskets have been fitted and considerable time spent in discovering the fault.

A disagreeable squeak may often be traced to a head lamp bracket. If it is not solidly attached to frame a squeak will arise from that point. A loose rivet or bolt is quite often the cause.

When a motor is hot cars should be taken out to pour cold water into the cooling system too rapidly. When the water strikes the overheated cylinders it is very apt to crack same, due to the rapid contraction which takes place.

Wood alcohol applied with a sponge or cloth is one of the best methods of cleaning either cloth or rubber surfaces. A mixture of luscious oil and turpentine is sometimes recommended for cleaning leather.

Many cars have the muffler located near the center of the car directly on the body. Quite often the exhaust will set up a disagreeable rumbling, especially noticeable when riding. This rumbling may be overcome by leading a piece of flexible metal hose from the muffler to the rear of the car.

Millionaire's Hobby Brings $500,000 The First Year

In Spite of Business Conditions and Out of Way Location, Constant Advertising Increases Value of New Grocery Business 200 Per Cent.

Make 4 1/2 Per Cent. Advertising Investment Monthly.
(By Andrew L. Demling.)

For forty-two years two men, partners in a neighborhood grocery, sold supplies to the south side wealthy district of Chicago.

Among their regular patrons was a man who made his millions in the department store field.

This man became interested in the success of the two grocers, and used to drop into the store frequently, to talk over means and methods of this untamable but unaccountably fascinating field.

Proprietor "Jim" Ellis has a modern up-to-date summer hotel, having installed this year new beds and furnishings. The cuisine of the kitchen, always good, has shown a wonderful improvement.

Lake Lawn, situated right on the lake, has beautiful grounds, well shaded and enticing. A good beach offers the bathing while there are plenty of boats and excellent fishing for the anglers. The best of music makes the dance floor popular in the evenings.

In going to Lake Lawn from Janesville the best road at present seems to be the Middle road as far as the Walworth County line, changing there to the Emerald Grove road a mile away. Whichever way one goes a cordial welcome is ready from Proprietor "Jim."

FORMER MAYOR OF ROME TAKES JOB IN ARMY

Rome, Aug. 21.—Signor Ernest Nathan, former mayor of Rome, who recently applied for a commission in the army, has been appointed to an infantry regiment at present quartered in the capital. His position is that of inspection lieutenant, and he will look after the supply of food, bedding and other daily necessities.

farms producing just for us, and according to our instructions.

"But the question of overcoming the problem of surplus and waste that every grocer has to deal with, remained."

"So we established our restaurant. The quality of cooked food is the essential point, not its beauty before it is cooked. And advertising has soon made this one of the most profitable features of the business to such an extent that we are having to take over an additional store room for it."

Advertiser's Year Round.
"What is your most active season?"
"So far as seasons go, the Christmas holidays are our best, of course. But we advertise at least three times a week in all seasons, as we are doing now. We use varying sized ads, from 100 lines to a page Christmas spreads, and during the fall and winter we advertise every day, and prominently."

"How do you apportion your investment so far?"
"We do it monthly, and try to keep it within 4 1/2 per cent. of the month's business."

One Lesson On Immediate Results.
"One trouble with local advertisers is their expectation of immediate results, and their inclination to get discouraged when they don't show up."

"For instance, this spring we ran some feature advertising on the subjects of picnic lunches, a specialty of ours."

"The first week I think we filled two orders. The second week we filled perhaps a dozen or so, while now picnic lunches are a definite steady business of profit growing every week, and all through that spring campaign. The week never passes that doesn't bring us reminders or quotations from ads in that little series."

Expected Big Results in Next Three Years.
"And on the same principle, we are very confident of big results inside the next three years."

"Our first year's advertising has increased the value of this business a big 200 per cent., as its immediate result. We have already found it necessary to take over the 2,000 square foot room on the south of us here."

"The cumulative results of the prestige and reputation this year's advertising has established, with the passing of the war and the general brightening of business conditions will carry us a long way toward the goal we have set for ourselves. With continued advertising activity, an operation with it the next three years should easily see us a $500,000 yearly business."

Shows Unusual Value of Advertising This Year.
"But it is the men who are advertising NOW, inspiring and holding the people's confidence in their substantialness, encouraging, by their own example, a spirit of optimism and a well founded belief in an early prosperity, they are the ones who will be in on the ground floor when that prosperity arrives, as it is bound to do soon."

"And in the mean time, there is constant expansion. Last Christmas, we were nearly a year old, and we had a season well beyond what a year old establishment might well expect. But our business for June of this year, despite the war conditions and effects, was larger than that of December."

"Which just shows the cumulative effects of constant newspaper advertising. Every advertisement that the constant advertiser runs brings not only its results, but its effectiveness is strengthened and increased by the accumulated achievements of every advertisement he has ever run, and by the reputation and prestige of his very constancy has won for him."

"Regular and uninterrupted care is the main feature of growth in every form of life. In business the advertising corresponds to the necessary water and food of plant and animal life, and the wise man allows neither to be neglected or interrupted."

Caddies sometimes have a ready answer for disgruntled golfers, as the following story will show: A dub golfer went on the links one day to practice. He sliced in a horrible fashion, and his caddy had to run to every quarter to retrieve the ball. After three balls had been lost, the golfer, in an angry mood, snapped: "Boy, I thought you came out here to look after the balls!" And the caddy responded: "Well, mister, if you thought that way it seems that we both made a sort of mistake, because I thought you came out here to play golf."

No club in the country has a pitching staff that is as good as the Red Sox. There are nine slubmen on the pay roll, yet less than half have come anywhere near earning their salaries.

Manager Rowland of the White Sox says: "Boston and Detroit both have wonderful heavy-hitting outfielders. With either trio behind my infield and battery strength I could simply breeze home with the pennant."

Manager Jennings of the Tigers is after Carl Veltman, the lengthy pitcher of the Browns. Should he be landed the Tigers will have a real star and a big help in their efforts to land the pennant.

The New Yorks' former business manager, Arthur Irwin, now manager of the Lewiston club of the New England league, has developed a great outfielder, who, he says, is one that will make the fans forget all about Ty Cobb and Tris Speaker within the next two years. The phenomenon's name is Becker.

There was an instant of silence, in which her breathing was plainly audible. Beneath the shadow of an uplifted hand I felt that her eyes were upon my face.

"Very well, then," she said finally, her voice more expressive of interest. "It is surely no more than natural that I should desire to know whom I have the honor of talking with."

"But do you not know?"

"No," firmly and decisively. "You heard what those men said—yet you go on pretending to me. You are the officer they referred to, are you not?"

"Yes; I escaped when Fox's command was attacked."

"You were an officer in Captain Fox's troop?"

"No; I joined him by accident at Hot Springs."

"Under what name?"

The utter uselessness of attempting to lie was apparent. Her questions were too direct, too straightforward, for any further evasion. The slightest quibbling now would cost me her friendship forever. If I hesitated, it was scarcely noticeable.

"Under the name," I replied quietly, "of Charles H. Raymond, Lieutenant Third U. S. Cavalry, on recruiting service."

"Oh!" the exclamation burst forth in surprise at my frank avowal. "Then you did not make that up merely to deceive me? You had been passing under that name with others. You had taken it for a distinct purpose—a military purpose?"

"I took it," I said slowly, and deliberately my eyes looking steadily at her. "Because I knew such a Federal officer had been detailed to service in this neighborhood. If I have taken my life in my hands to serve the cause of the South, it was in obedience to the orders of my superiors."

"Whose orders?"

"General Jackson directly; although Robert E. Lee was present, and gave final instructions."

Her hands concealed her face, and I could judge nothing as to its expression; whether, or not, my words had any weight with her. She sat motionless, bent slightly forward. At last she said slowly:

"I know enough of—of army life to be aware that men are not ordered to such hazardous work—they are asked to volunteer. Only a brave man would assume such a risk; only a man who believed in himself, and his cause. I—I like you better because you have told me. I believe you are honest with me now. I did not know what to do, or what to say before. I knew you were not Raymond, and that you were acting a lie—but could not guess your purpose. What made it

There was the sound of chairs being pushed hastily back from a table, and rapid steps on the floor.

"Yes; what's wrong? Have you found something?"

"Sure; Bill an' I saw them; they were a tryin' ter git the boss; but afore either of us could fire, they sorter slipped 'long back o' ther fence, an' got away. It's dark'n' hell out there, an' Bill sed fer me ter cum in yere an' tell yer that if you 'on Kelly wud cut across the road, an' sorter head the cusses off w'd bag the two easy."

"What's the rest of ther boys?"

"Ridin' the Lewisburg pike accordin' ter orders, I reckon. Leastwise we had met before—have we?"

"Yes, Miss Noreen; I am Tom Wyatt."

"Why! Why, of course!" the swift expression was one of intense relief. "How stupid of me! Oh, I am so glad that I know." To my surprise she held out both hands impulsively. "Your being a spy doesn't make any difference now that I know who you really are. It is no wonder I did not recognize you—why you were only a boy."

"Not when you rode by my mother and me on the pike."

"A year ago? I remember; yet I hardly caught a glimpse of you through the dust. You were just a boy when you were here last. Why you had long curls."

"And thought Noreen Harwood the most beautiful little girl I had ever seen."

"Why you—you are in even greater danger than I."

"Oh, no; from all I have seen and heard the Covans must be in sympathy with the South, or they never would have made the attack on Fox's party, or held Lieutenant Raymond prisoner. I had considered going direct to Anse, revealing my identity, and demanding protection."

Her hands grasped my sleeve.

"No, not that! You do not understand, Tom Wyatt. These men care nothing for the issues of the war. They merely use them to cover up their own lawless deeds, and to assist in working out schemes of revenge. They are neither Federal, nor Confederate; they are robbers, murderers, and thieves. Is Anse Cowan here tonight for any purpose but his own? You realize what that purpose is."

"I have heard enough to make me certain," I answered. "He would force you into marriage to thus gain control of this property. The killing of Major Harwood was part of the plan."

"You know then of my father's death? You know that report to be true? Why, you said you were with Captain Fox at Hot Springs! Is it so?"

"Yes, Miss Noreen, it is true. I saw your father's body, and that of his servant Tom. I came across the mountains with the man who killed them both. I supposed him to be a scout. He called himself Jim Taylor, and when they first met your father addressed him by that name. They met by appointment at a house a mile south of Hot Springs. Your father said nothing to you of such a man?"

"No; I saw him but for a moment as he passed through Lewisburg on his way east. He was to meet a scout beyond the mountains, but no name was mentioned. What did the man Taylor look like?"

"I described him to Captain Fox, and one of his men, a sergeant, instantly pronounced the fellow to be old Ned Cowan."

"Ned Cowan? Why, that could not be! My father would never have an appointment alone with him. They have been deadly enemies for years."

"That may be true, Miss Noreen. I can only tell you what little I know. Your father might have been deceived; drawn into a trap. He was there apparently by appointment to confer with a man known to him as Taylor. Who Taylor really was I cannot say—but he was an enemy, not a friend, of Major Harwood. I do not insist that the fellow was Ned Cowan, but I am sure he belonged to the gang. We trailed him nearly to New River, and had gone into camp amid the mountains when the Covans attacked us. In my judgment the killing of your father, and the raid on this house tonight, form part of the same plan."

I do not think she was crying, although her face was buried in her hands. I turned my eyes away, down through the scuttles hole, but nothing moved along the hall below. The house seemed absolutely deserted, but the lamp continued to burn, and yet, even as I felt the strangeness of such intense silence, a door slammed somewhere in the distance, and a gruff voice spoke.

CHAPTER XI.

Waiting the Next Move.

"Anse—Kelly, are either of you there?"

There was the sound of chairs being pushed hastily back from a table, and rapid steps on the floor.

"Yes; what's wrong? Have you found something?"

"Sure; Bill an' I saw them; they were a tryin' ter git the boss; but afore either of us could fire, they sorter slipped 'long back o' ther fence, an' got away. It's dark'n' hell out there, an' Bill sed fer me ter cum in yere an' tell yer that if you 'on Kelly wud cut across the road, an' sorter head the cusses off w'd bag the two easy."

"What's the rest of ther boys?"

"Ridin' the Lewisburg pike accordin' ter orders, I reckon. Leastwise we ain't seen 'em since yer tol' us ter watch ther stable. Bill an' I can't round them up alone."

"All right, Dave. Where are they now?"

"In ther orchard, a creepin' 'long the fence. Bill's followin' 'em up, an' all you got ter do is run 'long the road an' git ter the corner ahead o' 'em. They can't go no other way."

I caught a glimpse of the two as they crossed the lower hall hurriedly. The lamp flickered in the draft of the opened door, and one fellow swore roughly, as he stumbled over some obstacle. Then the door closed, and the flame steadied. In the silence we could hear again the beating of rain on the roof over head.

"Who do you suppose they could have seen?" she asked.

"Shadows likely enough. Let them hunt. We know now the house is deserted, and can find more comfortable quarters—perhaps even slip away before anyone returns. You will go with me?"

"Of course; I am not afraid of Tom Wyatt."

We passed the ladder down slowly, and carefully, until the lower end rested securely on the floor below. If Nichols had recovered from the effect of the severe blow, he had made no sound, and I had almost forgotten his presence. I drew back, and permitted the lady to descend first, holding the upper supports firmly until her feet touched the floor. It was a struggle for me to force my larger bulk through the narrow opening, but I succeeded finally, and stood beside her. In the brighter light I could perceive more clearly the expression of the girl's face, realized the friendliness of her eyes. My frank confession had won me her confidence; no matter where her sympathy might be in this war struggle my allegiance to the cause of the South was no serious barrier between us, even the fact that I was masquerading there in a stolen uniform and under an assumed name, had not greatly changed her trust in an old playmate. My heart beat faster to this knowledge, yet, in some way, although I rejoiced, the recognition brought with it a strange embarrassment.

"It sounds as though the storm was harder than ever," she said. "Where shall we go?"

"My choice would be to hide in one of these rooms, for the present, at least. We could scarcely hope to get the horse out of the stable unseen, and, even if we did, we would be likely to ride into some of the gang."

"But they will return to the house."

"Before they leave—yes; but it is hardly probable they will search up here again. Anse will be in ill-humor enough when he decides we have really escaped, but will never imagine that our hiding place is in the house. They will give up by daylight, and then the way will be clear."

"And where will you go?"

"Why," in surprise. "I could not leave you alone until I placed you in the care of friends."

"At Lewisburg, you mean?"

"If that is where you wish to go."

Her eyes met mine frankly, but with an expression in their depths I failed to fathom.

"Not wearing that uniform," she said quietly, "or under the name of Lieutenant Raymond. Do not misunderstand. There is friendship between us—personal friendship, the memory of the past, a knowledge of the intimacy between your father and mine. More, I am grateful to you for the service you have been to me this night; nor do I hold it against you that you risk your life in the cause for which you fight. But I am Union, Tom Wyatt, and I cannot help you in your work, nor protect you. When daylight comes I am going to say good-by—and forget that I have even seen you."

"But," I protested, "why could we not part, if we must, at Lewisburg, after I know you are safe?"

"There are Federal troops at Lewisburg. They know me, and their commander is aware of my acquaintance with the officer whose name you have assumed."

"Yet, in a measure, at least, you trust me? I want you to consider me a personal friend."

"Why I do," her eyes opening widely. "It is for your own protection I refuse your escort to Lewisburg. I am a traitor to my flag not to take you there, and surrender you a prisoner. If—if I did not care I would. Hark! That was a shot!"

"Yes, and another; they sound to the west of the house."

"In the orchard, beyond the stable. Can there really be someone hiding there?"

"They are certainly firing at something—there speaks another ride farther south. Those fellows will be back presently, and we must be out of their way. What room is that beyond the chimney?"

"It was used by the housekeeper. Do you know where Parson Nichols was left?"

"In the room at the head of the stairs; why yes, your room. Could they have killed the man?"

I pushed open the door, which stood slightly ajar, and looked in. Nichols had partially lifted himself by clinging to the bed, and his eyes met mine. The marks of the savage blow with which Cowan had floored him, were plainly evident, and the man appeared weak and dazed. Yet he instantly recognized me, and crouched back in terror. I stepped into the room, and gripped his collar.

"Stand on your feet, man! Oh, yes, you can; you're a little groggy yet, no doubt, but with strength enough for that. Come; I'll hold you. Now, out into the hall. Miss Harwood, may I trouble you to open that door—yes, the housekeeper's room; we'll hide ourselves in there. By Jove, that sounds like a regular volley!"

I pushed the man forward, and flung him down on the bed, still retaining my grip on his collar.

"Not a move, or a sound, Nichols! Attempt to betray us, and your life is not worth the snap of a finger. Miss Harwood close the door, and lock it."

The same instant a vivid flash of red lit up the whole interior, the light glaring in through the unshaded windows, and reflecting from the walls. Nichols started up with a little cry of terror, but I forced him back.

"It is not the house," I said sternly. "They must have fired the stable. Keep down out of sight. Miss Noreen, creep across to that nearest window and take a glance out—be careful that no one sees you. I'll keep guard over our preacher friend."

She left us quietly, crouching close against the wall, until she could safely peer out from behind the fold of a chintz curtain. The glow from without reddened the entire room. Nichols began to groan, and mutter, but whether the words were those of prayer, or not, I was uncertain. That the fellow's brain tottered on the brink of total collapse was evident, and I was too fearful he might create alarm to desert my guard. Eager to learn what had occurred I called across to the girl:

"Is it the stable, Miss Noreen?"

"Yes," with a quick glance backward. "The whole west end is ablaze. I think there are horses picketed beyond in the orchard, but am not sure—yes, there are men there with them. The fire, as it blazes up, gives me a better view."

"Can you tell how many?"

"No, but I didn't suppose Anse Cowan had so many with him, did you?"

Diplomacy.

"Look here, Charlie," said one young underdog to another, who had been asked to run his eye over a letter which his friend had written to his father, in which there was the inevitable request for money, "you've spelled 'jug,' 'gug'!"

"I know," said Charlie; "but you see I need the cash, and don't want the old man to think I'm putting on airs. That's how he spells it."

SLUGGISH LIVER CAUSES TROUBLE.

The discomfort and dangers of hot weather are doubled if the liver is sluggish and torpid and the bowels irregular and inactive. There is no better remedy than Foley Cathartic Tablets for indigestion and constipation. They are prompt, wholesome and vigorous in action without griping or pain. If you feel dull and stupid, languid and weak, a Foley Cathartic Tablet will help you. Stout persons are particularly grateful for the light and free feeling they bring. W. T. Sherer, Druggist.

Dinner Stories

Charles, the Second, for whom the Earl of Rochester made this epitaph, "Never said a foolish thing and never did a wise one," could convey a reproof with wit and gentleness. When Penn stood before him, with his hat on, the king took off his own. "Friend Charles," said the Quaker, "why dost thou not put on thy hat?" "This is the custom of this place," returned the king, "that no one more than one person should be covered at a time."

"This is a fine time to ask me to buy a car," said the head of the family. "Don't you know that my business is going to the dogs? I'm likely to be forced into bankruptcy any minute."

All the more reason why we should have a car," replied his wife. "If the worst should come to the worst you can make a jitney bus of it and support the family."

A minister, walking along the street one day, saw a crowd of boys sitting in a ring, with a small dog in the center. When he came up to them he asked:

"What are you doing to the dog?"

One little boy said, "Whoever tells the biggest lie wins it."

"I am surprised at you little boys, for when I was like you I never told a lie."

There was a silence for a while, until one of the boys shouted, "Hand him up the dog!"

"This war will be a great stimulus to American manufacturers. Before it is over we shall be able to equal if not to surpass every country of Europe in any line of production."

"Excepting, of course, widows and orphans."

Uses of Gypsum.

Crude gypsum is used in Portland cement manufacture, for soil dressing, as an adulterant in flour, sugar and baking powder, and in the manufacture of crayons. Blocks of clear, white gypsum called alabaster are used by artists and sculptors. So it may be seen that ancient Egyptians were aware of the use of one of our most valuable modern materials when they plastered the commodious sides of old Cheops with gypsum.

Mere Man.

Man is not only of few days and full of prunes, but he is an insignificant mutt at his wedding, his wife's parents are the heroes when the first baby comes, and after that his wife takes over his pay envelope every week.—Houston Post.

WITH THE COMING OF DAWN

Is Not as Beautiful in the City as in the Country. But It Brings Another Day.

Dawn comes softly and pleasantly over the country fields, and it loses something of its charm through familiarity, it is most friendly and perhaps most appreciated there. In the hills the dawn comes gayly, stopping behind each peak to make itself more beautiful, scattering color everywhere and playing with its own reflection in the deep waters of the lakes.

In the city streets the dawn comes swiftly and bravely—perhaps because the night is ugly there and so determined to stay. Dawn in the city streets is not so pleasant as dawn in the country fields, and it is not so young as dawn in the hills. It is finer and stronger. It is awesome, but it is reassuring, too.

Perhaps it is only the uninitiated who feel the terror and the fascination of the city streets at night. Perhaps the initiated know that the fascination is not true and the terror not real.
Perhaps they are more fascinated and more afraid than anybody. The uninitiated do not understand.

They wonder why there are so many people in the streets; why that old man stands alone on the corner;
where that woman and the two children are going; where all

BIG STANDING ARMY NEEDED SAYS WOOD

UNITED STATES ARMY OFFICER
FAVORS 200,000 REGULARS
FOR NATIONAL DE-FENSE.

VOLUNTEERS WON'T DO

Country Cannot Depend on Unknown
People for Its Defenders He Tells Business Men at Plattsburg.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Plattsburg, N. Y., Aug. 21.—To approximately 1,100 business men gathered in the military training camp here, Major General Leonard Wood, U. S. A., stated that the volunteer system in this country is a failure; that the country needs a standing army of approximately 200,000 men; that the country cannot depend on "unknown people" for its defense, and that it is up to the business men such as are assembled here to see that proper legislation is passed to overcome the unpreparedness.

It was "fighting talk" that General Wood gave the men in camp. He was thoroughly in earnest, and there was nothing of the jingo in his manner as he spoke. The perfectly earnest from the shoulder with a little slap at William J. Bryan and the other pacifists, and a bitter denunciation of those who seem to "think that armies are brought into being overnight."

"I want to say a word to you regarding our method of raising an army and the fallacies of it," said General Wood. "The perfectly earnest statement has been made that we can raise a million men between sunset and sunrise. This assembly of you men here at this camp is an answer to that sort of foolish talk. (Such a statement was made by ex-Secretary of State William J. Bryan some time ago.)

"When it was seen by the business men present what direction the general's remarks were taking, the recruits pricked up their ears."

"Need of Better Armament." "There are many variable old ladies" went on the general, "who think that you have responded to the call of the wild, and that that is all the assembly means. Personally I hope that it means the beginning of the response of as many males as we have left."

"I hope that when you go away from here you will use your influence as good citizens, and, in contrast to that of the masses, by whom you should not be influenced, to help secure good legislation for the establishment of an adequate armament in this country."

"We want a big navy and an efficient navy. Perhaps we don't need the biggest navy in the world, but at least we ought to have the second biggest. We want, too, a mobile army, for without a mobile army our coast defenses, on which so much depends, might be rendered useless."

"With all due respect to the national guard of the country for the good work that it has done, we need a new system. We need, in my opinion, much more effective federal control of the national guard than we have had in the past if that branch of the service is to be made as effective as it should be."

"The system of volunteers has always been a failure. General Washington warned us earnestly, even in his day, against depending on volunteers for our national defense. It might have been well enough in his day to depend to a very large extent on volunteers, for the ocean then meant isolation for us. But now, when the ocean is only five days' ride, it is, instead of a means of isolation, a ready means of access."

"The nations whom we apprehend are prepared. The nations who are coming to us are coming to us. We can take care of the little ones in our own good time, although we may be a bit slow in getting to them. But, returning to the question of armament, I would point out to you that we never got a full quota of volunteers in the Spanish-American war; both the Confederates and the United States government were forced to resort to the draft system in 1862, and today we cannot depend for our defense on the good will of the unknown people who are coming to us from everywhere."

"Quoted Thomas Jefferson. "As Thomas Jefferson recommended in a letter which he wrote to Monroe, 'We must train and organize all of our men citizens, and make military instruction compulsory in our colleges. Until we do that, we will not be safe.' That statement, gentlemen, is as true today as it was when Jefferson made it. We must have a system of trained citizen soldiers."

VOLUNTEER ARMY PLAN FAILURE, WOOD TELLS NOTABLES AT PLATTSBURG CAMP

General Wood watching business men training in the military training camp at Plattsburg, N. Y.

To approximately 1,100 business men gathered in the military training camp at Plattsburg, N. Y., Major General Leonard Wood, U. S. A., stated that the volunteer system in this country is a failure; that the country needs a standing army of approximately 200,000 men.

PUBLICITY SAFEGUARD

Let People Judge for Themselves
Wisdom of State Expenditures, Says
Milwaukee Correspondent.

By Ellis B. Usher.

Milwaukee, Aug. 21.—The conclusion of the legislative session is a welcome respite. As was said in last week's letter it is too early to estimate the results of the session, but it is safe to say that the legislature has developed their value for their shortcomings. It is probable that the claims now made of reducing taxes will vanish as the expenditures of the year. One newspaper statement tells us the net reduction in the number of state commissions is eight. Another says there will be "no state tax" this year, and that there is a reduction of eight commissions according to the best information obtainable, there are still forty or more boards and commissions in existence. If the reduction is made, it is going into the game it is going to have the state officers' remit, the state tax, the necessity will soon appear to them of doing it next year, and the same will be more political thunder in it.

But there is no disposition to be hypocritical. Whatever of good Government has been accomplished will be recognized, and the state officers have been somewhat halted, if not decreased. In other words, most of the reductions that are now claimed as results of the session are not yet made. They have prevented larger appropriations for this year and next, and, by figuring each shooter at $2 a day for lodging and meals, $7,000 is spent for each bill.

A fair average of the amount spent by each for railroad fare is $25, making a total of $17,500 for transportation. Shells cost $30 per thousand, and it was estimated 400,000 would be used during the tournament, making $12,000 for ammunition. The entry fee for a shooter going into every event is $50, but the average is $40, bringing the total for 900 shooters to $36,000. The treasury of the association was tapped for $10,000, for putting up tents, erecting traps, buying targets, and bringing a grand total of $82,500, which may be a low estimate, if anything.

Men who follow the sport mingle with millionaires in this sport. One of the first to put a trigger was W. E. Phillips of Chicago, and right beside him was R. G. Weir, a machinist from Freeport, Ill. There was a ranch owner from Texas and a painter from Michigan. Then there was a Concordia, Kas., farmer who was represented by a letter of regret. He said he couldn't come because he would be busy with his crops.

Trapshooting is the most cosmopolitan sport under the sun. Women's Feet Growing Smaller. The sex will rejoice to hear that an English scientist declares that women's feet are growing smaller. He claims that a study of former types of feet goes to prove that the feet of modern people are more shapely than those of their ancestors or those of the savage races. Perhaps, after all, the mistakes of ill-fitting shoes have not seriously deformed the general type of foot.

HEAD OF ENGLISH STEEL FIRM, NAMED STEEL DIES AT SHEFFIELD.

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Sheffield, England, Aug. 21.—Henry Steel, head of the great English steel firm of Steel, Peck and Tozoh, who has just died at his home here, was perhaps best known outside trade circles as the man who laid King Edward, then Prince of Wales, $5,000 to a carrot against a horse at the Epsom races. The Prince lost and paid with a carrot formed of coral mounted in gold.

Mr. Steel and his partner, Mr. Peck, formed the greatest firm of bookmakers on the English turf fifty years ago. The fortune which they made on the race track enabled them to enter the iron and steel industry as pioneers in 1875. Mr. Steel died at the age of 83.

INDIAN POPULATION INCREASING.

The Bureau of Census has just issued a volume that will surprise some of the theoretical and imaginary statisticians. It is a volume of 285 pages, devoted to the "Indian Population in the United States and Alaska, 1910."

Contrary to the general impression, the Indian population is increasing rather than diminishing, though the increase doubtless represents a gradual diminution of pure Indian blood. In 1890 the United States census showed an Indian population of 245,225, which in 1910 had increased to 255,832. In 1890 the Indian population of Wisconsin was 7,930, and in 1910 it had increased to 10,142. The present Indian population of Wisconsin is undoubtedly the largest that ever occupied this territory. The early Indian population, when white settlement began here, was from the best estimates that can now be made, taking the figures made by the Jesuits and others, including our early government agents and American traders, very much below the present figure. The Indian population of Wisconsin is little understood by the average white citizen, so it is worth giving in the present authentic form. Wisconsin ranks eighth in the size of Indian population, being exceeded in the order named by Oklahoma, Arizona, New Mexico, South Dakota, Alaska, Washington and Montana. Fifty-eight of Wisconsin's 91 counties contain Indian inhabitants. Twenty-seven of these tribes are represented in this state. Some of them, however, like the Kickapoo and the Sanks and Foxes, have but one representative each left among us. The principal part of our Indian population is represented by five tribes, viz: Chippewa, 4,299; Menominee, 1,350; Ojibwa, 1,107; Winnebago, 735; Stockbridge, 502. The volume gives the racial characteristics of the Indians, marital relations, illiteracy, school attendance, and occupations, so it is of great value to students who want a back of fact for their theories of Indian conditions.

American Dollars at Premium. "War bridge speculations and has brought about an unheard of condition in foreign exchange. England's commercial transactions with this country have been so far reversed that millions of money is coming this way to be paid in American dollars, with the result that our dollars are at a premium the world around. It is a situation that makes one smile at the possible plight we would be in if we were on a silver basis as that president, patriot, Mr. Bryan, would have us, if he had his way. As it is, New York is the financial master of the world just now, and it is probable that England will have to establish a credit of a half billion to keep her bills paid.

One who seems to attract little attention, but it is worth bearing in mind; with war orders and some legitimate increase in other lines following along, this country is going to be short of labor of all kinds, because so many laborers have gone back to Europe. High wages will help increase prices. Necessity of life will be more acutely within the next six months, if the war continues, and it will.

Golf on a Vacation. "How are you going to take your vacation?" "Right here in the city on the golf course."

The foregoing is a repetition of a conversation that has been identical for the last two or three weeks. Knowledge. Other men have gone to neighboring towns and cities to play over new courses and conquer new ones. But, at any rate, it is one of the new ways of spending an enjoyable vacation.

Oh, yes, of course well-known golf players have taken such vacations before. In fact, to the average golfer we never wonder of all kinds, because $9, such men as Chick Evans, Travis, Quimet, the Edwards brothers and many more always seem to be talking about new courses. But the golf vacation for the average club is comparatively new.

The novelty will wear off, but the common cause will remain. Healthy golf play, it is, with good meals, good sleep, and the result of the day's work, one's own home following. What more can an enthusiast want? It sends him back to work fresher and with a new zest. It is a new way of life, perhaps, founded on the arm of knowledge of his friend's character on the golf course.

The average English player has been doing the thing for many years. We in America are just awakening to its possibilities. It's a wise, enjoyable and economic vacation for the average man.

Ship Goes East.

(Advertisement.)

The government, in reporting the transfer of four of the Erie Railroad Lake ships from Lakes to the Atlantic trade, gives the following explanation of the way it is done: "The Erie Railroad sold four of its boats, the Oswego, the George F. Brown, the Erie, and the Erie, to the McCullough, to the Staten Island Shipbuilding Company over a month ago. The McCullough was the only one able to pass through the locks of the Welland Canal, and it was at Montreal with the overhang of the stern piled on the afterdeck. The Oswego has been out in two in dry dock at Buffalo and bulkheaded, and is now ready to be loaded with cargo for Quebec. The Binghamton and Brownell are in dry dock at Buffalo and will be similarly cut in two and towed to the coast."

Considerable alterations must be made in practically all the lake boats transferred to the foreign and coastwise trade. The deck houses on the lake boats are on the forward and after ends of the boats, and are removed and placed in the middle on account of the heavy seas which wash over the bow. The lake package boats, as the usual cargo boats, have the large side ports by trucks run from the dock into the ship. For coastwise and foreign service these large side ports must be closed and replaced by smaller ones. The hatches on the lake boats are raised to 15 inches. The shifting of the deck houses to the center also necessitates a rearrangement of the hatches. The rudder and sternpost of the lake steamers must also be altered to meet the insurance requirements of the new service."

JAMAICAN FRUIT IS FOUND TO CAUSE DISEASE

(BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.)

Kingston, Jamaica, Aug. 21.—An obscure disease, known as "vomiting sickness" and "cerebral meningitis," of which sporadic outbreaks of more or less intensity have occupied the attention of the medical authorities for years, has at length been traced to its origin. The investigator, Dr. H. H. Scott, government bacteriologist, publishes a report in which the edible fruit of the tree, known as the "Jamaican fruit," is shown to be a certain unfavorable condition is determined to be the source of disease.

It has long been known, locally, that the fruit is highly dangerous to animal life when eaten in an unopened or unripe condition, but hitherto it has never been suspected as the cause of the "vomiting sickness."

The fruit, which is a small, round, green, somewhat flattened fruit, is eaten by the natives, however, was the peculiar seasonal prevalence of the "vomiting sickness" with the main peak season where the fruit is eaten. The fruit is relatively scarce. "This year the peak season," says Dr. Scott, "has continued longer than in previous years, and the 'vomiting sickness' has been reported in greater numbers than last year, and over a more prolonged period."

After years of personal investigation, Dr. Scott has been able to establish in 300 cases, Dr. Scott arrived at the conclusion that "vomiting sickness" is an acute intoxication by a hot, aqueous extract of the unopened or unripe fruit. The fruit is used extensively in Jamaica and in the season is an almost invariable accompaniment of salt fish, in fact it is the most deleterious part of the Jamaican breakfast, and is highly valued by the European or the American visitor as it is by the native Jamaican, and carefully selected and eaten with a wholesome relish. On the other hand, the unripe fruit is dangerous in the extreme and cases are cited where death resulted in a few hours after the fruit had been eaten.

STEEL HELMETS PROVE A USEFUL PROTECTION TO FRENCH INFANTRYMEN

(SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE)

Dunkirk, France, Aug. 21.—Steel helmets have not been in use sufficiently long in the French army to prove that they are a useful protection to infantrymen. They have saved a large number of men in the front line from being killed or wounded or killed by shrapnel fire and effectively warded off the side-stroke of rifle bullets.

The soldiers are enthusiastic about the helmets and the delay in their turning them out is partly overcome by the fact that they are only used in the firing line and supporting trenches.

An official statement that the thin chrome steel helmets cost less than seven cents each.
